Comments and Recommendations

The motion prevailed.

Rep. Meisner:

“Thank you Mr. Speaker

What an incredible and rare privilege it is to serve one’s friends and neighbors in such a strange and wonderful place, and process

We learn about democracy in school, some of us studied political science in college – but to participate in the process as an elected representative is truly special

I will always remember my time in this chamber warmly, and I will long reflect on lessons learned — especially lessons learned the hard way

To quote the great philosopher Mick Jagger: ‘you don’t always get what you want, but you get what you need’

This place is full of lessons – good and bad

The quiet dignity and courage of our sergeants offers a lesson, as does the courteous and professional manner of the people who make this place go – before, during and after we elected are put out to pasture

Lessons in the great triumph of the human spirit are plentiful

I believe that god puts us on earth for a purpose

I have long viewed my purpose to be an aggressive and passionate advocate for people in need

People in need of food and basic necessities

As a child, my father was struck by mental illness, derailing a successful legal career and his ability to provide for his family

We relied on the kindness and generosity of others for many of our needs

I remember what that feels like as I see my constituents going through similar challenges

It feeds my passion for fighting for them with the same tenacity, sophistication and resources as the lobbyists these good people can not afford

Overcoming such adversity through perseverance, incredibly hard work and divine intervention have helped make me who I am

I also believe in advocating for people in need of excellent, innovative, game-changing public policy

Government can’t – and shouldn’t – do it all, but I firmly believe that public policy makes a big difference

I hope that the policies I offered have helped Michigan to update our public policy climate, as well as meet the incredibly urgent need for job creation and economic diversification

I referenced my desire to be a passionate advocate

I’d like to distinguish passion from emotion, since I’ve been accused of being both from time to time

To me, emotion is the enemy of sound public policy

Emotion clouds our thinking and obscures issues

Emotion takes us off the path of thoughtful, methodical, empirical and research based public policy

It yields poor public policy that holds our state back and makes us look out of touch

However, once one has done their research, identified best practices from around the state, country and world, worked with stakeholders to understand how the proposed policy will translate in the real world...

That is the time when a proper course can be set, and when passionate advocacy is not only appropriate, but many times necessary

I have many thank ‘you’s’ to make

I’d like to start with thanking god for what, at 35, has already been an invigorating and fulfilling life

My family for their love and support, including my mom, Marian McClellan, step-dad, Keith McClellan and sister, Michelle McIver who is watching with little Jessie in bend, Oregon.

My colleagues on the republican side of the aisle for their friendship and for sharing their valuable and diverse perspectives, including bill Huizenga, mike Nofs, Dave Palsrok, and speaker DeRoche.

On our side of the aisle, Fred Miller for teaching me the meaning of friendship and leadership

Speaker Dillon for taking the lead of Abraham Lincoln – before president-elect Obama appointed Senator Clinton in making me commerce chair and empowering me to be involved in so many important issues

Doug Bennett for saying it like it is, Steve Tobocman for pushing me to be better, Marie Donigan for her partnership, and Hoon-Yung Hopgood for his thoughtful nature

I’d like to thank my staff over the years, including Bob Burns, Brian Mingus, Ellen Rodman, Samantha Talbot, Lauren Borson and Angela Powell, as well as all of the interns who helped make our office run

And lastly, I would like to thank the people of Berkley, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Oak Park and Pleasant Ridge who entrusted me with a sacred, constitutional responsibility that I have tried to discharge with every ounce of my being

Rep. Emmons:

“Thank you Mr. Speaker. It has been a privilege to serve as a legislator. I want to thank my family for their steadfast support. And thank you to my long suffering staff: Robin Naeyaert, Jessica AcMoody, Blake Johnson, Matt Blinkilde, Tara Wiedrick, Katelyn Wilcox. Their support has been more than I could have asked.

But my greatest gratitude is reserved for my constituents. They entrusted me to represent their perspective. They entrusted me to represent their values. They entrusted me to be their voice. And most of all, they entrusted me to take their hard earned tax dollars and spend them as wisely and prudently as I would if it were my own money.

A few weeks ago a columnist in my local paper wrote about the perspective of children. She wrote how one young man had heard Rep. Judy Emmons tell about her job. ‘She works hard in Lansing. She is a public serpent.’ Unfortunately many people see us as public serpents because we fail to put the needs of our citizens first. We forget who sent us here and why. For those returning members and those who are newly elected, please never forget that you are here to serve the public first, foremost and always. There is no higher calling than to be a public servant. Thank you.”

The motion prevailed, 2/3 of the members serving voting therefor.

Rep. Hansen, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

While making it easier for people to vote and participate in our elections is undoubtedly a good thing, allowing early voting will make holding elections more expensive, a cost many local governments cannot afford. Most rural townships do not have full time clerks, making it impossible to implement early voting.

This bill fails to include funding from the state, shifting the burden onto local governments who are already stretched thin.

Furthermore, absentee ballots are already available for seniors, people who are ill or incapacitated, military members on active duty and people who will not be in town on Election Day. “

Rep. Schuitmaker, having reserved the right to explain her protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I support the concept of HB 6305, however, I cannot support the bill in its current form for several reasons. This legislation has not been vetted through the proper channels and instead of having support from the mental health community, it has been rejected by the MI Association of Community Mental Health Boards, the MI Psychological Association, the Prosecutors, the Sheriffs Association, the MI Association of Counties and the Mental Health Association. The Chair appointed a Mental Health Subcommittee with the sponsor of this bill as the chair. The subcommittee never met. There was a brief work group with limited participation that ignored the suggestions for changes. We have not vetted this substitute and are seeing it for the very first time minutes before being asked to vote on it. The opportunity for input by the affected individuals and organizations was lost. The process was flawed.”

Rep. Robertson, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I join Rep. Schuitmaker in her opposition to this bill’s passage. I am deeply concerned about mentally ill jail inmates; however this bill is poorly written and does not address the issue effectively.”

Rep. Emmons, having reserved the right to explain her protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

The chairman appointed a subcommittee with the sponsor of this bill the chair to examine this serious issue. However since this subcommittee never met, I believe legislation lacks scrutiny. The very stakeholders who will be implementing the process are not in favor of this bill as written. Since this version of the bill was available only minutes prior to voting I must vote no.”

Rep. Amos, having reserved the right to explain her protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

This bill is not supported by the mental health boards or the sheriff’s assn.”

Rep. Angerer moved that Rep. Cheeks be excused temporarily from today’s session.

She is to be commended; and

Whereas, Kathleen Law entered the Michigan House of Representatives with a wealth of experience in local government and in a variety of local organizations protecting our scarce natural resources and recreational opportunities.
