Oakland University was established in 1957 when the late Alfred G. and Matilda R. Wilson donated $2 million and their 1,500-acre estate to begin a new college in Oakland County, Michigan. From its beginnings, the university has provided an undergraduate education that prepares students with a portfolio of skills and values that lead to success in work and life.

Oakland University is one of the country’s 83 doctoral/research universities as listed by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. It offers 139 undergraduate majors and 127 graduate degree and certificate programs, including master’s and doctoral degrees.

Oakland breaks enrollment records every fall and today enrolls nearly 20,000 students. The university offers a unique, hands-on education for undergraduate and graduate students through the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Schools of Business Administration, Engineering and Computer Science, Health Sciences, Education and Human Services, Nursing, The Honors College and the Oakland University William Beaumont School of Medicine. Its regional economic impact is estimated at more than $500 million annually.

Of the university’s 534 full-time faculty members, nearly 94 percent hold a doctoral degree in a specialized field of study from many of the nation’s finest research institutions. These renowned faculty members teach in Oakland University’s classrooms. In fact, graduate assistants teach less than one percent of all OU courses. Small classes mean students receive hands-on, high-quality attention from inspirational and innovative faculty members.

Oakland University continues to move toward its goal of creating an even more distinctive undergraduate education by 2020. Oakland is expanding on its core strengths to become known for its cross-disciplinary approach to education, unique opportunities for undergraduate research, personalized attention, and its tradition of producing liberally educated leaders.
