CHRONOLOGY OF MICHIGAN HISTORY

1618 Etienne Brulé passes through North Channel at the neck of Lake Huron; that same year (or during two following years) he lands at Sault Ste. Marie, probably the first European to look upon the Sault. The Michigan Native American population is approximately 15,000.

1621 Brulé returns, explores the Lake Superior coast, and notes copper deposits.

1634 Jean Nicolet passes through the Straits of Mackinac and notes copper deposits.

1641 Father Isaac Jogues and Charles Raymbault conduct religious services at the Sault.

1660 Father René Mesnard establishes the first regular mission, held throughout winter at Keweenaw Bay.

1668 Father Jacques Marquette takes over the Sault mission and founds the first permanent settlement on Michigan soil at Sault Ste. Marie.

1669 Louis Jolliet is guided east by way of the Detroit River, Lake Erie, and Lake Ontario.

1671 Simon François, Sieur de St. Lusson, lands at the Sault, claims vast Great Lakes region, comprising most of western America, for Louis XIV. St. Ignace is founded when Father Marquette builds a mission chapel. First of the military outposts, Fort de Buade (later known as Fort Michilimackinac), is established at St. Ignace.

1673 Jolliet and Marquette travel down the Mississippi River.

1675 Father Marquette dies at Ludington.

1680 La Salle, with a small group, marches across the Lower Peninsula, reaching the Detroit River in ten days, the first Europeans to penetrate this territory.

1681 Earliest known use of “Michigan” on a map.

1686 French build Fort St. Joseph at Port Huron.

1690 Father Claude Aveneau explores the upper reaches of the St. Joseph River; establishes mission on the present site of Niles.

1694 Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac is appointed commandant of the Michilimackinac (St. Ignace) post; remains until 1697.

1697 Fort St. Joseph is built at mission on the St. Joseph River (Niles).

1701 Detroit is founded as Fort Pontchartrain by Cadillac as a permanent settlement to protect and secure the fur trade. Ste. Anne’s Church, a log structure, is erected by Cadillac’s men and dedicated two days after the founding of Detroit. Ste. Anne’s is the second oldest continuously maintained Roman Catholic parish in the United States. In the fall, Madame Cadillac and Madam Tonty arrive at the fort as the first European women in the region.
1712  British-inspired Indian raids begin, including the siege of Fort Pontchartrain.

1715  Fort Michilimackinac is reestablished on the southern shore of the Straits of Mackinac.

1715  Fort Michilimackinac is reestablished on the southern shore of the Straits of Mackinac.

1756  France and England begin the Seven Years' War (also known as the French and Indian War).

1759  The French surrender to the English at Montreal; this marks the decline of French power in Michigan.

1760  British Major Robert Rogers receives the surrender of Detroit, after taking Great Lakes fortifications. About 2,000 people are within the stockade; warehouses found to contain furs worth $500,000.

1761  The British occupy Fort Michilimackinac.

1762  Pontiac, an Ottawa chief, plans a conspiracy against British; calls for a council near Detroit in the spring. The English take possession of the Sault.

1763  With the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, France loses North American mainland possessions. Pontiac and followers enter the fort at Detroit in an abortive effort to capture it from Major Henry Gladwin by surprise attack. Detroit endures a siege of several weeks.

1765  Pontiac signs a treaty with the British at Detroit, nearly a year after other tribes have made peace.

1775  Henry Hamilton takes command at Detroit.

1777  British conduct raids from Detroit into Kentucky.

1778  Construction begins on Fort Lernoult, Detroit. Daniel Boone brought to Detroit as a prisoner.

1779  Nearly 3,000 persons living in the Detroit area.

1781  Spanish forces from St. Louis take Fort St. Joseph (Niles); all residents are taken prisoner; the Spanish flag is raised. Raiders depart the next day and the fort reverts to British possession.

1782  Moravians establish Indian mission near what is today Mount Clemens.

1783  The Treaty of Paris is signed, ending the Revolutionary War and including Michigan in the United States. The British control the Michigan area, however, for 13 more years.

1784  First ordinance passed by Congress governing the Northwest Territory.
1785 Congress passes first act relative to the disposal of western lands. Michigan appears for the first time on a map as a land division of the United States. Sloop Otter becomes the first vessel to navigate Lake Superior.

1786 Moravian Indian village near present-day Mount Clemens is abandoned.

1787 Congress enacts the Ordinance of 1787 (second Northwest Ordinance), outlining the government of the “Territory northwest of the Ohio River.”

1788 The first stage of American territorial government is established under the Northwest Ordinance, except in British-occupied Michigan.

1791 The Americans under Arthur St. Clair suffer a major defeat at the hands of British-allied Indians in Ohio.

1792 Detroit, including settlements on both sides of the river, holds its first election, sending three representatives to the Parliament of Upper Canada.

1794 General Anthony Wayne decisively defeats Indians and allied British troops at the Battle of Fallen Timbers, near Toledo.

1795 The Jay Treaty is ratified by Congress. The British finally agree to relinquish all Northwest Territory lands. The Treaty of Greenville (Ohio) is signed. The first major Indian land treaty involving Michigan, it included land on the Detroit River, the Straits of Mackinac, and Mackinac Island.

1796 The British withdraw their garrison from Detroit. The Stars and Stripes are raised for the first time on Michigan soil by Wayne’s advance guard.

1798 Father Gabriel Richard comes to assist at Ste. Anne’s in Detroit.

1799 The Territorial Assembly convenes at Cincinnati, Ohio. The county of Wayne (embracing all of the Michigan Territory) sends one representative, elected in the first local (Michigan) election held under United States rule.

1800 Wayne County circuit court created by act passed December 9.

1801 First post road established in Michigan.

1802 Detroit holds its first election following incorporation under an act passed January 18 by the Legislative Council at Chillicothe, Ohio.

1803 Ohio is admitted to the Union, excluding the strip of land that 30 years later will be known as the “Toledo strip.” Michigan becomes part of the Territory of Indiana.

1804 United States land office established at Detroit.

1805 The Territory of Michigan is created, with Detroit as the capital. Detroit is completely destroyed by fire. General William Hull becomes the first territorial governor. Important commercial timbering begins, when sawmills are built on the St. Clair River to aid in rebuilding Detroit.

1806 Governor and judges authorized to lay out new town of Detroit after fire had destroyed the settlement. Bank of Detroit chartered by the governor and judges; Congress disapproves the act on March 3, 1807.

1807 The Treaty of Detroit is signed by Chippewa, Ottawa, Wyandot, and Potawatomi tribes meeting with General Hull. Duties paid to the United States on furs at Mackinac exceed $40,000.

1808 American Fur Company founded by John Jacob Astor.

1809 The Michigan Essay and Impartial Observer, the state’s first newspaper, is printed by James M. Miller on a press imported by Father Richard.
1810 The Michigan Territory’s population is 4,762 and includes 32 slaves, most of whom are Native Americans.

1811 A memorial to Congress stresses the defenseless position of Michigan and begs for military aid against the Indians.

1812 The United States declares war against England. Father Richard urges the population to support the American cause.

Fort Mackinac falls to the British, who know of the declaration of war earlier than the frontier post.

Hull surrenders Detroit to General Isaac Brock without firing a shot. Hull later is court-martialed.

1813 At the Battle of River Raisin at Monroe, the main body of Americans is forced to surrender and promised protection from Indian allies of British.

The massacre of the River Raisin occurs. This proves to be a powerful factor in uniting American sentiment for expulsion of the British from the west.

Commander Oliver Perry’s victory on Lake Erie and William Henry Harrison’s defeat of Proctor’s army in Canada (in which Tecumseh is slain) end hostilities on northwestern American border.

Harrison, departing for Washington, leaves Colonel (later General) Lewis Cass as the military governor at Detroit. Cass continues, under presidential appointment, as the governor of the Michigan Territory for 18 years.

1814 The Americans make an unsuccessful attempt to recapture Mackinac Island.

The Treaty of Ghent ends the War of 1812; the British leave Mackinac Island.

1815 Governor Cass and judges adopt legislation reincorporating Detroit (city) and restoring a restricted municipal government.

1816 Part of Michigan Territory given to the state of Indiana.

First recorded shipwreck on Lake Superior occurs at Whitefish Point with the schooner Invincible.

Due to unfavorable reports on Lower Peninsula lands by the Surveyor General, Congress decides not to place military bounty lands in Michigan.

1817 The Catholepistemiad, or University of Michigania, is incorporated. John Jacob Astor establishes a trading post at Mackinac Island, centering his fur-trading activities there.

1818 Public land sales begin at Detroit; immigration from the East is under way.

Michigan’s first Protestant church, the Methodist Episcopal, is erected along the banks of the River Rouge.

Walk-in-the-Water, the first steamboat on the Upper Great Lakes, arrives at Detroit on its maiden voyage.

1819 William Woodbridge is elected as the first delegate to Congress from the Michigan Territory.

With the Treaty of Saginaw, Governor Cass obtains for the United States about 6,000,000 acres of Michigan land, marking the beginning of the Indian exodus from the territory.

1820 The population of the territory is 8,096; Detroit, Mackinac, and Sault Ste. Marie are its largest towns.

The Treaty at Sault Ste. Marie is negotiated by Cass; Indians cede a 16-square-mile tract on the St. Mary’s River for a fort site, but reserve fishing rights.
1821 Cass negotiates a treaty at Chicago, gaining from the Chippewa, Ottawa, and Potawatomi virtually all Michigan territory south of the Grand River that had not previously been ceded.

1822 Public stagecoaches begin running from Detroit.
Fort Brady established at Sault Ste. Marie.
Dr. William Beaumont at Mackinac begins study of human digestive processes by observing through a hole in the stomach of Alexis St. Martin.

1823 General Hugh Brady and soldiers construct Fort Brady at the Sault, ending domination of the region by the British.
Congress advances the Territory of Michigan to the second governmental grade, authorizing the Legislative Council of 9 members presidentially appointed and 18 locally elected. Enacted laws are subject to congressional approval. The first capitol, in Detroit, is built.
Father Gabriel Richard takes office as the territorial delegate to Congress (1823-1825), the only priest to serve in Congress until 1971.

1824 United States government opens second land office in Michigan at Monroe.
On motion of Father Richard, Congress appropriates $10,000 for a survey of the Great Sauk Trail (now U.S. 12) between Detroit and Chicago and makes an additional appropriation in 1825.

1825 The opening of the Erie Canal in New York facilitates settlement of Michigan and shipping of farm products to the East.

1827 Fort Shelby, Detroit, is demolished.
1828 First capitol occupied in Detroit on May 5.
State Library is established.
State Historical Society organized (now Historical Society of Michigan).

1829 “Cabinet Counties” are established, named after members of President Jackson’s administration (Barry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Eaton, Ingham, Jackson, and Van Buren).

1830 Michigan’s population is 31,639.
Fur trade reaches its peak. Its subsequent decline leaves some regions without commercial activity.
Michigan issues a railway charter to the Detroit & Pontiac Railway, the first incorporated railway in the limits of old Northwest Territory.

1831 General Lewis Cass, appointed secretary of war by President Jackson in July, resigns the governorship.
Stevens T. Mason, at age 19, becomes the acting governor of the Michigan Territory.
Federal government opens third land office in Michigan at White Pigeon.

1832 A seven-week cholera epidemic devastates Detroit; Belle Isle is used for quarantine.
Father Richard, priest, legislator, and educator, dies of cholera, contracted while nursing the sick.

1833 Steamboat Michigan launched at Detroit.

1834 The Territorial Legislature petitions Congress for permission to form a state government.
Southern states protest the admission of another free state; Ohio protests the boundary Michigan claims. Congress refuses to grant its permission.
The second cholera epidemic at Detroit begins with the death of Governor George B. Porter. It wipes out one-seventh of the population.
1835 Pioneers in Macomb and adjoining counties discover oil. The Ohio Legislature passes an act asserting claims to the “Toledo strip” along its northern boundary. Governor Mason calls out the militia as the “Toledo War” begins with more anger than gunfire. Border incidents continue into September, and jurisdictional wrangling goes on through all of 1836. A convention at Detroit drafts a state constitution in preparation for statehood. Stevens T. Mason, who had been removed from office by President Jackson because of Mason’s action on the Toledo question, is elected as the first governor of the state of Michigan at 23 years of age.

1836 Congress accepts Michigan’s constitution. It agrees to admit the state upon condition that Michigan accept Ohio’s boundary in return for four-fifths of the Upper Peninsula. At the first convention of assent held at Ann Arbor in September, the conditions set by Congress are rejected. The horse-powered Erie & Kalamazoo Railroad chartered in 1833 reaches Adrian from Toledo. The first steam locomotive in the state is put in operation on this line the following year, as the railroad is the first west of New York State to operate. Democrats call a convention on their own initiative and assent to entry into the Union. Whig opponents take no part in this “frost-bitten” convention held in Ann Arbor in December. Daily stages from Detroit begin carrying mail and passengers to Sandusky, Chicago, and central Michigan; a railroad between Detroit and Jackson is under construction; ship-building becomes important along nearby rivers and lakeshores. During seven months of navigation, 200,000 people pass through Detroit’s port. Bituminous coal mining begins in Michigan. A Quaker preacher employs an underground railroad to bring slaves into Cass County, and movement of fugitive and freed slaves into the state begins.

1837 Detroit’s population is almost 10,000. Michigan is admitted to the Union as a free state as Arkansas is admitted as a slave state. The Panic of 1837 strikes Michigan. Michigan experiences its first strike as journeymen carpenters parade through Detroit streets.

1838 Detroit elects Michigan’s first school board under state law. The Grand Rapids furniture industry has its beginning.

1839 Effects of the Panic of 1837 help break Democratic monopoly, and Whigs carry state election. Michigan State Prison located at Jackson.

1841 Dr. Douglass Houghton, the first state geologist, reports on rich copper deposits of the Lake Superior region and makes cautious mention of the possibility of iron ore in the Marquette district. The University of Michigan, reorganized and offering college curriculum, opens at Ann Arbor.

1842 Indians cede Keweenaw Peninsula and Isle Royale, the last Indian holdings in the state.

1844 Surveyor William A. Burt (inventor of the solar compass and other important items) accidentally makes the first iron ore discovery at Negaunee. General Lewis Cass, former governor, former secretary of war, and ambassador to France, is elected U.S. senator from Michigan. The first major copper operations begin in the Keweenaw district. Olivet College is founded.

1845 Dr. Douglass Houghton drowns near Eagle River on October 14.

1846 Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, Dutch secessionist pastor, sails from Rotterdam with 53 Hollanders; they form the nucleus of western Michigan’s large Dutch settlements begun the following winter. The Jackson Mining Company begins operations on the site of Burt’s 1844 discovery, first iron ore mining in the state. Michigan becomes the first English-speaking jurisdiction in the world to abolish capital punishment.

1847 The old capitol in Detroit is used for the last time by the state legislature, which makes Lansing the new, permanent capital of the state.

1848 King James Strang, a Mormon leader, builds a tabernacle and lays out the town of St. James on Big Beaver Island. The state legislature meets for the first session in the new capitol at Lansing.

1849 The first annual statewide fair is held at Detroit. The Cliff Mine pays a dividend of $60,000, the first sum of this magnitude distributed in North America on copper investment. Michigan’s manufactured goods are valued at more than $11,000,000. There are 558 sawmills operating in the state.

1850 Michigan’s population is 397,654. The second state constitution is approved.

1851 Lumber mill output of Saginaw amounts to 92,000,000 board feet. Elizabeth D. Camp receives first academic degree conferred upon a woman in Michigan.

1853 Construction begins on the Soo Canal.

1854 The Republican party is formed and named at meetings held in Jackson. Michigan School for the Deaf created at Flint.

1855 The Soo Ship Canal and Locks are completed and turned over to the state. Michigan Agricultural College (Michigan State University) is established. It becomes the nation’s first land grant college.

1856 Abraham Lincoln gives an antislavery address in Kalamazoo.
1857  General Lewis Cass is appointed U.S. Secretary of State and is succeeded in the U.S. Senate by Zachariah Chandler. The Christian Reformed Church in North America is founded by Michigan’s Dutch settlers, following secession from the Reformed Church. The Agricultural College of the State of Michigan opens its doors in what is now East Lansing, the first college of its kind in the United States.

1858  The Detroit & Milwaukee Railroad completes its line connecting Detroit and Grand Haven. First elevated iron ore dock constructed at Marquette. Grand Trunk Railroad opens line from Detroit to Port Huron. Michigan Asylum for the Insane opens at Kalamazoo on August 24. Classes begin at Adrian College.

1860  Michigan’s population is 749,113. Successful well drilling of salt begins in Saginaw County.

1861  Thomas A. Edison erects his first electrical battery and begins experiments at Fort Gratiot (Port Huron). The First Michigan Regiment leaves Fort Wayne. It is the first western regiment to reach Washington during the Civil War, in which 90,000 Michigan soldiers see service.

1862  Passes to Canada required to prevent Michigan citizens from fleeing military service.

1863  Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (the oldest railroad labor union in the Western Hemisphere) founded in Michigan.

1864  First Michigan Colored Infantry is mustered in. Michigan’s black troops number 1,673. Bessemer steel is first manufactured in any appreciable amount in America, at Wyandotte. The copper lode at Calumet is discovered. Michigan’s production of copper has for 17 years exceeded that of any other state (holds first place until 1887).

1865  Jefferson Davis captured by members of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry.

1866  Michigan statesman Lewis Cass dies on June 17. Hope College is established in Holland, Michigan.

1867  Constitutional convention convened in Lansing, voters reject proposed revision.

1869  Memorial Day first observed in Michigan. Nation’s first “university hospital” established at the University of Michigan.

1870  Michigan’s population is 1,054,670. The value of agricultural produce for the year is estimated at $88,000,000. Annual lumber production for the state averages 3 million board feet, and is the highest in the country for a period of 20 years.

1871  Forest fires ravage the state, destroying towns and leveling thousands of acres of valuable pine, causing losses in the millions of dollars. Calumet & Hecla Mining Company consolidates local (Calumet) mining interests, controlling one of world’s richest copper districts. Calumet becomes a company town typical of the copper country. Negaunee’s average annual iron ore production reaches 135,000 tons.

1872  Republic Mine opens; the 88 percent pure iron deposits permit continuous high-level production for 55 years. Construction begins on present state capitol building. The Michigan Grange is organized to help Michigan farmers.
1873  Financial panic begins early in the year.
Michigan Department of Public Health created, fifth in the nation.

Wayne University is organized in Detroit.

1935
Michigan celebrates its centennial of statehood. One-fifth of Michigan’s employables are without work; the state population has dropped 28 percent since the 1930 census. The United Automobile Workers (UAW) is organized. Nation’s first travel information lodge opened on US-12 at New Buffalo. The Detroit Tigers win the World Series. With championships in this era from the Lions in professional football, the Red Wings in hockey, and Joe Louis in boxing, Detroit is known as the “City of Champions.”

1936
Mass organization of labor under the CIO is strengthened by the affiliation of International Union, United Automobile Workers of America, with the CIO. With the Flint sit-down strike leading the way, General Motors shuts down, affecting 150,000 workers and closing more than 60 plants in 14 states.

1937
Joe Louis, who moved to Detroit at age 12, becomes world’s heavyweight champion in boxing. The UAW strike reaches a peaceful conclusion as collective bargaining agreements are signed by General Motors and most other automotive and parts manufacturers, except the Ford Motor Company, which fought unionization until 1941. Keweenaw Peninsula copper mining again turns upward, with production reaching 75,000 pounds. Civil Service merit system introduced to Michigan government. A wave of sit-down strikes in various industries eventually leads to a breakdown of the open-shop tradition in the state.

1938
International “Blue Water Bridge,” connecting Port Huron and Sarnia, Ontario, is dedicated.

1939
Frank Murphy, former governor, takes office as Attorney General of the United States. Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald dies.

1940
Luren D. Dickinson, acting governor of Michigan, appoints Matilda R. Wilson as lieutenant governor, the first woman to serve in that capacity. Attorney General Frank Murphy is appointed to the United States Supreme Court to succeed the late Associate Justice Pierce Butler. Michigan’s population is 5,256,106.

1941
Auto plants are converted to the production of war materials and Michigan becomes known as the “Arsenal of Democracy.” The United States enters World War II. By the time the war ended in 1945, 673,000 Michigan men and women had served in the armed forces.
1942 Sidewheeler Seeandbee converted to the aircraft carrier U.S. Wolverine for training naval air pilots on Lake Michigan.

The University of Michigan Men’s Basketball Team wins the NCAA championship and the Detroit Pistons win the first of two consecutive National Basketball Association crowns.

1990  The restored chambers of the Senate and of the House are reopened and the lawmakers return to their traditional home after holding sessions elsewhere. The Senate becomes the first state legislative body in the nation to include microcomputers on the chamber floor.
Michigan begins the Adopt-a-Highway program.
Michigan’s population is 9,295,297.

1992  The U.S. Congress passes the Michigan Scenic Rivers Act protecting over 500 miles on 14 rivers from development.
The Twenty-Seventh Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is ratified by the vote of Michigan. The text of the amendment, which provides that no law varying the compensation of Senators and Representatives shall take effect until an election of Representatives has intervened, was originally submitted to the states as part of the Bill of Rights in 1789.
The restored Michigan State Capitol is rededicated.

1993  The Michigan House of Representatives operates throughout the Eighty-Seventh Legislature under a shared power agreement that reflects the 55-55 Democratic-Republican split. This arrangement, with co-speakers and co-chairs of committees rotating responsibilities each month, leads to a highly productive two years, including a major realignment of the state’s public school financing.
1994  Governor John M. Engler is reelected to a second term; coupled with state legislative victories, Republicans control both houses of the legislature and the governor's office for the first time in 26 years.

Note: The First and Second Conventions of Assent of the Territory of Michigan occurred as a result of the Act of June 15, 1836, 5 Stat. 49, of the United States Congress establishing a northern boundary for the State of Ohio and providing for admission of the State of Michigan to the Union upon acceptance of certain conditions. The purpose of the act was to resolve the long-standing dispute between Michigan and Ohio over 400 square miles of territory known as the "Toledo strip." Congress required Michigan’s assent to the establishment of the northern Ohio border to include that area before Congress would vote to admit Michigan to the Union. In compensation, Congress offered 9,000 square miles of territory in what is now Michigan’s Upper Peninsula.

In response to that requirement, the Legislature approved an act on July 25, 1836, calling for the election of delegates to a convention to consider the issue. Fifty delegates elected September 12, 1836, convened in Ann Arbor on September 26. The delegates rejected a proposed compromise by a vote of 28-21. In the resolution rejecting the conditions of admission, the delegates stated that Congress had exceeded its authority by imposing conditions contrary to the provisions of the Ordinance of 1787. The resolution also criticized the state legislature for adopting a congressional act as the basis for its action in calling for a convention.

Later in 1836, the Committee of the Democratic Convention of Wayne County recommended another convention to reverse the earlier decision, citing sentiment to comply with the conditions of Congress. At the committee’s urging, new delegates were elected on December 5 and 6, 1836. The “Frost-Bitten Convention” convened in Ann Arbor on December 14 and 15, immediately and unanimously approving a resolution of assent to the conditions specified in the congressional act of June 15, 1836.

Although some question existed in Congress as to the legality of this second convention, both houses voted to approve the December convention results and Michigan’s admission to the Union. President Andrew Jackson signed the bill making Michigan the nation’s 26th state on January 26, 1837.

NOTE: The First and Second Conventions of Assent of the Territory of Michigan occurred as a result of the Act of June 15, 1836, 5 Stat. 49, of the United States Congress establishing a northern boundary for the State of Ohio and providing for admission of the State of Michigan to the Union upon acceptance of certain conditions. The purpose of the act was to resolve the long-standing dispute between Michigan and Ohio over 400 square miles of territory known as the "Toledo strip." Although some question existed in Congress as to the legality of this second convention, both houses voted to approve the December convention results and Michigan's admission to the Union. President Andrew Jackson signed the bill making Michigan the nation's 26th state on January 26, 1837.
ACT ADMITTING MICHIGAN TO THE UNION

[5 U.S. Statutes at Large 144]

AN ACT to admit the State of Michigan into the Union, upon an equal footing with the original states.

WHEREAS, In pursuance of the act of congress of June fifteenth, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, entitled, “An act to establish the northern boundary of the State of Ohio, and to provide for the admission of the State of Michigan into the Union, upon the conditions therein expressed,” a convention of delegates, elected by the people of the said State of Michigan, for the sole purpose of giving their assent to the boundaries of the said State of Michigan, as described, declared and established in and by the said act, did, on the fifteenth of December, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, assent to the provisions of said act, therefore:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Michigan shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, in all respects whatever.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That the secretary of the treasury, in carrying into effect the thirteenth and fourteenth sections of the act of the twenty-third of June, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, entitled, “An act to regulate the deposits of the public money,” shall consider the said State of Michigan as being one of the United States.

Approved Jan. 26, 1837.

Note: The admission of Michigan into the Union on equal footing with the original states concluded a long and bitter battle over approximately 400 square miles of territory known as the “Toledo strip.” The dispute, which eventually entangled the government of Michigan (both as a territory and a state), the government of Ohio, and the federal government, ended only with Michigan’s accession to the demands of the United States Congress as specified in the Act of 1836, 5 Stat. 49.

Ohio, in its first constitution written in 1802, defined its boundaries to include that territory. Michigan, relying on the Ordinance of 1787 and the Act of 1805, 2 Stat. 309, claimed the same territory in defining its boundaries in its first constitution in 1835. Congress, which had debated the issue for several years, elected to award the territory to Ohio, making Michigan’s ratification of that boundary preliminary to her acceptance into the Union. Lacking full-fledged representation in the U.S. Congress and, perhaps, recognizing that admission to the Union offered more than would have been gained by withholding acceptance, delegates, on December 15, 1836, at the second of two conventions, convened to discuss the issue and assented to the conditions Congress had established. Although some in Congress questioned the validity of the action, Congress approved Michigan’s admission on January 26, 1837, 5 Stat. 144. See Ordinance of 1787; Act of Congress, 2 Stat. 309; Journal of the Proceedings of the Convention to Form a Constitution for the State of Michigan in Pursuance of an Act of Congress of June 15, 1836; Act of the Legislature of Said State on July 25, 1836, for the Purpose of Taking into Consideration the Proposition of Congress Relative to the Admission of the State of Michigan into the Union, 1836; First and Second Conventions of Assent, Territory of Michigan, September 26-30, 1836, and December 14-15, 1836, 1894 Reprint, Secretary of State; Early Michigan History (Pamphlets), vol.
