Reverend Jeffery D. Regan of St. Paul's United Methodist Church of Rochester offered the following invocation:

Gracious and loving God, God of all people, we pause today at the beginning of this session of the Michigan State Senate here in this beautiful land we call Michigan and ask Your blessing on all these who govern the citizens here in this great state. We thank You, Lord, for the freedom, liberty, and justice that are at the heart of our common life together. Grant these men and women vision, wisdom, and courage as they work together to provide for our people through caring programs, effective laws, just use of tax dollars, and good stewardship of our natural resources.

Lord, grant these Senators wisdom beyond human understanding that they may be able to find solutions to the many issues that will come before them. Grant them great insight into how to balance economic improvement with balanced budgets so that the people of Michigan may find work and prosperity even in these difficult times.

Lord, we thank You for their willingness to serve our state and its people and undergo the difficulties of elected office. May they together find ways to move this great state forward into a brighter tomorrow where the hopes of parents for a good education for their children and stable jobs for themselves may be achieved. Pour out Your Spirit of cooperation upon them that the needs and aspirations of all may be reached. Remove our suspicions and misunderstandings that all may honor You and all the people be cared for through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Cherry, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Senate agreed to the title of the bill.

Protests

Senators Scott and Prusi, under their constitutional right of protest (Art. 4, Sec. 18), protested against the passage of Senate Bill No. 687 and moved that the statements they made during the discussion of the bill be printed as their reasons for voting “no.”

The motion prevailed.

Senator Scott’s first statement is as follows:

I rise to speak in opposition of this bill. We are talking about giving up $1 billion in revenue. We have no idea how it will be replaced. We can’t cut $1.7 billion out of our existing budget; how do we think we can cut an additional billion. One billion dollars is 32,258 prisoner beds or 10,309 state troopers. How many fire trucks can $1 billion buy? How many potholes do you think we could fix with $1 billion? We could buy millions of new math books for all Michigan students. Let’s hope they learn more from them than you have. We could send over 100,000 kids to college for $1 billion.

This isn’t a targeted tax break. This is a give-away to big business, and we want to freeze the earned income tax credit for low-income citizens. This doesn’t make good policy, Mr. Lieutenant Governor.

Senator Scott’s second statement is as follows:

I am happy that the former speaker pointed out that this will regrettably end up with our children and our grandchildren. What great legislators we are for doing that.

Senator Prusi’s statement is as follows:

Recalling last week when this bill was discharged to the floor without a hearing in committee and making the remarks to the effect that this is a very complicated and technical issue, I would challenge anyone on the floor here to explain it and understand it fully at this point.

We’re faced with a myriad of issues left this year before September 30th, and I would question why in this short time frame we are moving this business tax cut ahead of all of the other problems we have and all of the other issues that we’re facing as we attempt to close the 2007 budget in the black, as well as provide revenue for the outyear.

I would encourage members to stop and think a little bit about what we are undertaking here and understand the actual ramifications of what we’re doing and the legacy that we’re proposing to put in the outyears here and not look at this as some simple little quick fix that is not going to have an impact. It is going to have an impact. It’s going to have a direct and dramatic impact, and it’s something that I think we needed to spend a little time in committee with, taking testimony. We also need to take into account the other problems that are facing the state as we work through this budget situation here.

I intend to vote “no” on this, and I would encourage members to vote “no” as well.

Senator Switalski asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Switalski’s statement is as follows:

This is a very complicated issue, and I wish my colleagues on Senate Finance had been given time to hold hearings on this matter before it came to the floor. But, although it’s a very complicated issue, one thing is clear. It will remove hundreds of millions of dollars from the Michigan business tax. There is no debate on that issue. The only question is how much money it will cost.

The Treasury Department indicated to the House, during their second committee meeting on this issue, that the bill could cost $1 billion; $100 million per year for ten years. Mr. President, I doubt that anyone here would like to carve another $100 million out of our current budgets, yet that is the task we are leaving to the Senators who are going to follow us here in the future. If we think it's going to be less than that, I'm sure we could put a cap on that. That might be the smart thing to do.

Having said all that, this amendment in front of us here today seeks to restore the level of funding that we all agreed to when we said we wanted a revenue-neutral MBT. That was a principle that we all adhered to; let's keep this revenue-neutral. This amendment would restore that. This would do that by increasing the rate of the business tax portion of the MBT for ten years during the period of this FAS 109 deduction, and thereafter their rate would return to the 4.95 percent—very simple.

Mr. President, my view is that any adjustment in the business tax should be paid for by an adjustment elsewhere in the business tax. I hope my colleagues will support my amendment.

By unanimous consent the Senate proceeded to the order of Statements

Senator Scott asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Scott's statement is as follows:

Frederick Douglass, the distinguished African American abolitionist, statesman, and reformer, said, "The real question is whether American justice, American liberty, American civil rights, American law, and American Christianity can be made to include all American citizens." Some 150 years later, my real question is whether Michigan insurance coverage can be made to include all Michigan residents because it certainly doesn't yet. It excludes those who work in the wrong professions, those who have certain credit scores, and those who live in the wrong zip codes. It also ignores driving records of those who are perfect drivers and who have never had a claim or a traffic violation.

If you truly seek justice, liberty, civil rights, and legal access, you will pass my bills.
