

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF JUSTICES

CHIEF JUSTICE
ROBERT P. YOUNG, JR.

Term expires January 1, 2019

“Our goal is for Michigan’s judiciary to be a national model of efficiency and service to the public,” says Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert P. Young, Jr. First selected by his colleagues in 2011 to lead the Court, Young has been dedicated to transforming our state’s court system into a more efficient and customer-focused institution.

As Chief Justice, Young has promoted initiatives to measure judicial performance, track public satisfaction, adopt best practices, and implement technologies that expand public access, increase efficiency and boost productivity of trial courts. “You can’t get a cup of coffee without being asked to provide your opinion about customer service,” Young says. “I believe courts should take the same approach to consulting the public so that good work can be recognized and problem areas addressed.”

During tenure as Chief Justice, the Court has also been dedicated to “rightsizing” Michigan’s judiciary so that it costs no more than necessary for the efficient administration of justice. To this end, 25 judgeships have already been cut, saving taxpayers $6.1 million over the past four years, and 15 more judgeship are slated for elimination. The cumulative effect will be a seven percent reduction in the total number of judges statewide and $175 million in savings to taxpayers.

Young has also supported the implementation of innovative technologies to help courts work smarter. This includes a plan to install videoconferencing equipment in every Michigan courtroom, allowing thousands of hearings to be held in “virtual” courtrooms, saving transportation costs and avoiding the security risks of transporting prisoners. In addition, the Chief Justice is spearheading a critically-needed upgrade of case management systems for trial courts statewide. The roll-out of the state-of-the-art MiCOURT system will move critical files from aging mainframes to more modern systems, while helping court staff be more efficient and improve service to the public.

A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, Young joined Dickinson, Wright, Moon, Van Dusen & Freeman in 1978, becoming partner in 1982. He became vice president, corporate secretary, and general counsel of AAA Michigan in 1992, prior to joining the Court of Appeals in 1995. After joining the court in 1999, Young was elected in 2000 and reelected in 2002 and 2010 to a term ending on January 1, 2019.

Young has served on the boards of many charitable groups, including the Detroit Urban League, United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit and Vista Maria, a resource center for abused and neglected young women and girls. A former commissioner of the Michigan Civil Service Commission, Chief Justice Young was a trustee of Central Michigan University, University Liggett School, and the Grosse Pointe Academy. He is a former chair of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce “Leadership Detroit” program. In 1999, he was named “Alumnus of the Year” by Detroit Country Day School. Young had been an adjunct professor at Wayne State University Law School for more than 20 years and now teaches at Michigan State University College of Law.

The father of two sons, Young has been married to Dr. Linda Hotchkiss for 40 years.

JUSTICE
RICHARD BERNSTEIN

Term expires January 1, 2023

Justice Richard Bernstein became the first blind justice, elected by voters statewide, to the Michigan Supreme Court in November 2014. With a commitment to justice and fairness, Bernstein began his eight-year term in January 2015.

Prior to being elected to Michigan's highest court, Justice Bernstein was known as a tireless advocate for disabled rights as an attorney heading the public service division for The Sam Bernstein Law Firm in Farmington Hills, Michigan. Blind since birth, Justice Bernstein is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Michigan and earned his juris doctorate from Northwestern University School of Law.

Committed to taking action to help clients who needed him, Justice Bernstein's cases often set national standards protecting the rights and safety of people with and without disabilities.

Among his cases in private practice, he represented the Paralyzed Veterans of America in partnership with the United States Department of Justice in an action against the University of Michigan to allow for safe access for disabled individuals when the university's alterations to the stadium failed to accommodate disabled visitors. The case helped establish guidelines that are used by all commercial facilities across the country.

He also successfully partnered with the United States Department of Justice to force the City of Detroit to fix broken wheelchair lifts on its buses, establishing a precedent for accessibility in public transportation. Further, Bernstein represented disabled residents against the Oakland County (Michigan) Road Commission after "roundabout" traffic circles were built without disabled access, impacting future compliance for road construction throughout the United States under the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA).

In a landmark settlement against Delta Airlines and Detroit Metro Airport, Bernstein gained accessibility for disabled fliers, helping set the standard for which airlines and airports are to be covered under the ADA. A proponent of education, he argued for, and won, preservation of special education funding throughout the state and filed a federal suit against the American Bar Association to put an end to its discriminatory practices toward blind students via requirement of the Law School Admissions Test. He also challenged the City of New York to make Central Park and all parks safer for visitors and accessible for disabled and visually impaired individuals.

Bernstein previously served an eight-year term on the Wayne State University Board of Governors, elected by voters statewide, serving as its Chair from 2009 to 2010. He also served as an adjunct professor in the political science department at the University of Michigan.

Honors Justice Bernstein has received include: "Michiganian of the Year" by the Detroit News, one of Crain's Detroit Business' "40 Under 40," and recognition on worldwide television by CNN as a leader in keeping government honest. He was selected by The Young Lawyers Section of the State Bar of Michigan as the 2003 to 2004 Regeana Myrick Outstanding Young Lawyer Award recipient for outstanding commitment to public service and is the recipient of the 2008 John W. Cummiskey Pro Bono Award from the State Bar of Michigan in recognition of his leadership as an advocate and activist.

Michigan Lawyers Weekly named Justice Bernstein a 2009 Leader in the Law and the University of Michigan presented him with the James T. Neubacher Award in 2011 for his unwavering commitment to equal rights and opportunities for people with disabilities. Also in 2011, L. Brooks Patterson, Michigan's Oakland County Executive, selected Justice Bernstein as one of the region's Elite 40 Under 40. In 2013, Justice Bernstein was inducted into the National Jewish Sports Hall of Fame.

In his spare time, Justice Bernstein is an avid runner, completing 18 marathons — including eight New York City marathons, the full Ironman triathlon in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho in 2008, and the Israman triathlon's half Ironman in Eilat, Israel in 2011. He also previously co-hosted a one-hour legal radio show called "Fighting for Justice" on WCHB-AM (1200) in Metro Detroit.

JUSTICE
MARY BETH KELLY*

Term expires January 1, 2019

Justice Mary Beth Kelly joined the Michigan Supreme Court in January 2011. Before her election to the Court in November 2010, she served as a judge on the Wayne County Circuit Court from 1999 to 2010, and worked as a lawyer and commercial litigation partner in the law firm Dickinson

Wright in Detroit from 1987 to 1999.

Governor John Engler appointed Justice Kelly to the Wayne County Circuit Court in 1999. She was elected to that court in 2000, and reelected in 2002 and 2008. During her tenure on the Wayne County Circuit Court, the Michigan Supreme Court appointed Justice Kelly to serve for three terms as Chief Judge; she remains the only woman in history to serve as Chief Judge of that court. Under her leadership as Chief Judge, she joined with the National Center for State Courts to increase the racial diversity of the Wayne County jury pool. She also entered into deficit reduction agreements to ensure the long-term sustainability of the court's budget. She also led efforts to increase the size of the Court's Family Division and to improve the Friend of the Court system in Wayne County. Those efforts resulted in a doubling of the size of the Family Division and the implementation of the Friend of the Court's privatized call center.

Since joining the Supreme Court, Justice Kelly has authored several opinions of major public significance. She authored the Court's seminal interpretation of the Michigan Medical Marijuana Act in unanimous opinion of People v Kolanek, which provided much-needed guidance regarding the medical use of marijuana in Michigan. She authored the lead opinion in Stand Up for Democracy v Secretary of State, which held that a referendum petition strictly complied with the relevant provisions of Michigan's election law and, therefore, must be submitted to the voters for their consideration. She has also written significant opinions that protect the rights of children, among them: the majority opinion in People v Likine, which held that "impossibility," not simply the inability to pay, governs a defense to the crime of failure to pay child support, and a dissenting opinion in People v Carp, which would have applied retroactively the constitutional requirement that juvenile offenders must receive an individualized sentencing determination that considers the offender's youth, personal characteristics, and circumstances of the crime before being sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

Justice Kelly serves as the Michigan Supreme Court's liaison for treatment courts, drug courts, and veterans' courts. In January 2015, Governor Snyder appointed Justice Kelly as Chair of the Michigan Committee on Juvenile Justice. Recently, as Co-Chair of the Michigan Race Equity Coalition, she examined the need for the juvenile justice and foster care systems to improve policies and racial disparities in these systems through accurate and meaningful data. Justice Kelly has also served as Chairperson of numerous other statewide committees, primarily focused on child welfare and family matters, and has received awards for her work in child welfare issues. She has also taught Children and the Law as an Adjunct Professor at the University of Detroit-Mercy Law School and has served as an advisor to numerous non-profit organizations.

Justice Kelly graduated from the Notre Dame Law School (1987), where she was a Thomas J. White Center Government Scholar and the Managing Editor of the Journal of Law, Ethics & Public Policy. She graduated with honors from the University of Michigan-Dearborn (1984), where she majored in Political Science and History, was active in the Washington Internship program, and was an elected member of the student government.

*Justice Kelly resigned effective October 1, 2015.
