Today, Father, is the last day of school. As the school comes to an end, we pray for our children and our family that they may have a safe and wonderful time. As they lead into the summer, they have a lot of activities and time together with the family.

Let us be mindful of Senator Donnie Koivisto as his mother passed away last night—that our prayers are with him and his family and with Dorothy, his mom, and that we may think about sending some cards to their office to let him know and his family know how much he means to us.

Let us be mindful of the things we're about to vote on and think about not only the citizens, but what Your will is, God. Let us be thinking all the time what is the best and what You would like to have us do. In Your name we pray. Amen.

Senate Resolution No. 61.

A resolution to support the Ready to Learn Leadership Summit.

Whereas, Brain research demonstrates conclusively that early brain development, and later capacity for learning, is largely determined by quality, caring interactions with infants and young children, or lack thereof; and

Whereas, Healthy intellectual, social, and emotional development of young children requires the formation of stable, loving relationships with parents and other caregivers; and

Whereas, Children are greatly prepared for school if they experience love and respect, exposure to language, and opportunities to play and explore; and

Whereas, Children are harmed in their development if they experience neglect, abuse, and exposure to toxic substances; and

Whereas, Longitudinal studies have shown that children who enter kindergarten are better prepared through positive, early education and care experiences. These children have a far greater chance of improved educational outcomes, higher rates of graduation, better preparedness to enter the workforce, and reduction in the need for special education, welfare, corrections, and other remedial services; and

Whereas, All sectors of society are influenced by the quality of early childhood education and care in the state, and all sectors are able to influence the quality of children's development; and

Whereas, The goals of the state of Michigan, the Legislature, and the Administration include workforce development, enhancing educational outcomes, reduction of crime, and welfare reform; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That participants of the Ready to Learn Leadership Summit are urged to commit to developing a universal, high quality system of early childhood education and care; and be it further

Resolved, That with costs and initiative to be shared by the private and public sectors, the Summit has as its measure of success or failure the extent to which all children in Michigan enter kindergarten ready to succeed; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the organizers of the Ready to Learn Leadership Summit as a token of our support for this worthy endeavor.
