Reverend Mark Neymeiyer of Rusk Christian Reformed Church of Allendale offered the following invocation:

This is God's word from Colossians 1:15-23:

"He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him.

"He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. And he is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning and the firstborn from among the dead, so that in everything he might have supremacy. For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross.

"Once you were alienated from God and were enemies in your minds because of your evil behavior. But now he has reconciled you by Christ's physical body through death to present you holy in his sight, without blemish and free from accusation—if you continue in your faith, established and firm, and do not move from the hope held out in the gospel. This is the gospel that you heard and that has been proclaimed to every creature under heaven, and of which I, Paul, have become a servant."

God, our Father in heaven, Your name is holy. May Your kingdom increase. May Your plans be accomplished on this day in this place. We pray that what is said and done today in this place will match Your perfect will in heaven. Provide for these men and women who represent the citizens of Michigan and the United States of America. Grant to each of them Your strength and Your wisdom.

Lord Jesus, we acknowledge Your reign over all things, including our state, our nation, and each of our lives. We ask that You bring forgiveness when we have wronged You and when we have wronged one another. May each one here seek forgiveness through Your blood shed for us on the cross. Cause us to seek You while You may be found.

Holy Spirit, we need Your power in this place and guidance according to the high standards of Your word, the Bible. We pray this all in the name of Jesus Christ and for His sake. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Calley, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

 The Senate agreed to the title of the bill.

Senator Booher asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Booher's statement is as follows:

House Bill No. 4078 provides funding for the Natural Resources Trust Fund projects across the state. Specifically, it includes $18.2 million for 25 acquisition projects and $6.5 million for 44 development projects for a total of $24.7 million. I am supporting this bill today. However, there are some issues that I plan to follow up on and review in greater detail.

In looking at the bill, I asked the DNR a lot of questions. Even though some people may think we need to just rubber stamp the recommendations made by the Natural Resources Trust Fund board, I believe it's the Legislature's responsibility to carefully review the list of projects just as we should all state spending.

I do appreciate the answers provided by the department to my questions. However, the answers led to additional issues that I think must be addressed; issues like the setting aside of NRTF money in separate funds by the DNR instead of maximizing the amount used for development projects; how much land the state already owns and how much is enough; and the restrictions on the use of state land.

So, while I am voting for this bill today, I wanted to publicly note that I will continue working on these issues to make some needed reforms to the trust fund management process and public land management in Michigan.

By unanimous consent the Senate proceeded to the order of

Statements

Senators Colbeck, Hood and Young asked and were granted unanimous consent to make statements and moved that the statements be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Colbeck's statement is as follows:

Yesterday, we had opening arguments on the King v. Burwell case, and I'd like to paint what the implications potentially could be in Michigan, depending on how that case is decided. At the heart of this case is whether or not subsidies would be allowed to be provided through the federal exchange in the state of Michigan, one of those states that actually opted for the federal exchange. If the case is decided in favor of the plaintiff, King, those subsidies would no longer be allowed. There were a lot of variations possible on how those decisions and how that's actually specified, but I want to make sure we understand from our colleagues what the implications on this are.

On the surface, it would seem to be that if we don't get the subsidies, it's really going to hurt the state of Michigan. It's important for people to know there's an additional provision in that law in Section 5000a that says if the cost of the plan exceeds 8 percent of the personal household income, then you are not subject to the mandate. In essence, anyone who cannot meet that threshold would not be subject to the mandate.

Now that's the essence of a get-out-of-Obamacare-free card, and for a lot of our citizens who are feeling the pinch of increasing premiums and increasing deductibles, that is a very good thing. I think it's important that this so-called Affordable Care Act—I think we're going to get a good example of why it's so unaffordable, depending on how this Supreme Court case gets decided—needs to be conveyed to the ash heap of history.

A decision is due out in the June time frame. I think that for the state of Michigan it's important to adopt an exploit-then-repeal strategy that we exploit as many of the free market loopholes available as possible, especially the Section 10104 that allows for direct primary care services. Expand that market as much as possible so that we finally get to the point where we can repeal the whole law. That will be just a pin prick and not noticed by innocent citizens depending on good, quality care that's affordable for their families.

I just want to make sure that our colleagues are advised on that.

Senator Hood's statement is as follows:

I just want to remind everyone here as the weather reaches another cold spell in the days ahead of us—these past couple of weeks, we've had subzero degrees and single-digit temperatures—but as we sit here and do our business, there are folks at home who are homeless, who are cold, who are shut out, who have fallen on hard times, and need some help.

If you could visit one of the warming centers or a homeless center, or if your municipality doesn't have a warming shelter, please encourage your local municipality to start one, because we know that there are folks in Michigan who are struggling right now because of the economic times. We're doing the best we can do to turn this state around, but there are folks out there as we drive back home who are struggling.

If you stand outside for five, ten, or fifteen minutes, it's really cold. We think it's cold walking from our meetings from one office building to another. Think about those who are standing out there and don't have a place to go, who don't have gloves, who don't have a hat, and some even don't have a coat.

As we go back to our districts this weekend, think about those folks. If you get a chance, reach your hand out and pull someone else up. Give them a helping hand in any way you can. Those are the unfortunate ones whom we're missing in this process.

Senator Young's statement is as follows:

I'd like to start with a quote. James Weldon Johnson put it eloquently. He said:

"We have come over a way that with tears hath been watered,
We have come treading our path through the blood of the slaughtered,
Out of the gloomy past,
Till now we stand at last
Where the white gleam of our bright star is cast."

Colleagues, I rise today to speak about a very special anniversary taking place this weekend. It is the 50th anniversary of Bloody Sunday, the march in Selma, Alabama, that took place in March 7, 1965. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Congressman John Lewis led 600 nonviolent protestors across the Alabama River to raise awareness about civil inequality and the Voting Rights Act. Despite being met with great opposition, the crowd continued on and grew to 25,000.

The nonviolent protestors were abused by police officers. They were shot with tear gas and beaten with night sticks. They were even hit with whips. Fifty years later, we honor their legacy by remembering the sacrifices that they went through to ensure a better future for generations to come.

People from around Michigan will be heading to Selma this weekend. Even our colleague, Senator Bert Johnson, will also be going. I assure you that I will be with them in spirit. It is important to keep fighting and standing up for civil rights, because we continue to see civil unrest throughout our country, whether it was Michael Brown in Ferguson, whether it was Eric Garner in New York, or whether it is voting rights being assaulted through state laws across the country.

It is true about that quote that the price for victory is eternal vigilance. We do this by standing up for what is right and continuing to talk about what is going on in our country. The conversation will continue as long as we see every African-American man, woman, and child mistreated by systemic inequality and institutional racism. Every single person in this country deserves equal treatment.

This country was founded on affirming—not denying—man's rights. With us here in Michigan and Senator Bert Johnson in Selma, Alabama, we can do our part in not only honoring the protestors' legacies, but by continuing where they left off.

I would just like to say in conclusion that even though they assassinated Martin Luther King, his fatality gave immortality to the Civil Rights Movement. We have a responsibility to pass that torch to the next generation. Let's do that together.
