Pastor Jon Terry of Living Waters Chapel of Caro offered the following invocation:

Our gracious Heavenly Father, we come before You. I come before You as a man of God, humbled that I have been chosen to pray blessings over these chosen leaders here in Lansing, Michigan. The Bible, Your word, gives us clear instructions on how all people are to treat our leadership. 1 Timothy 2, Romans 13, and 1 Peter 2 tells us to honor and pray for our leadership, so in accordance with Your word and as an ordained minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, I pray the following blessings over all these Senators and leaders here today.

I pray for a blessing of supernatural protection with Your righteous right hand. Not just our state, but our country is divided like never before. The only thing that can bring this nation together is not a Governor, not a Senator, not a President, not any government or even a pastor, but only the name and workings of Jesus Christ if we allow him to move. Our leaders have taken on the tough task of running this state and it's not easy. I further pray they find comfort in Philippians 4:13, where we are told we can do all things through Christ who strengthens us. I pray for a blessing of wisdom for these leaders. Your word tells us in Proverbs 3, "Blessed are those who find wisdom," and true wisdom can only come from You. I pray a blessing of guidance on all these leaders, guidance they can only truly find in You, Jesus, and Your word. I further pray that they look to Your word, the Bible, for guidance, not their constituents and not their political party, because in Your eyes, there is no such thing as a Democrat, Republican, or Independent. You came and You died for all mankind.

Lord Jesus, I ask that these chosen, set-apart leaders would be obedient to Your word before they are obedient to the laws of this land. If the law of this land is contrary to the written word, God, I pray that You convict their hearts and they make the corrections as necessary. I pray that they stand, defend, and speak for the unborn. I pray they stand, defend, and speak for Your definition of covenant marriage. I also pray that these chosen leaders will run to You and find hope, peace, and safety in the shadow of Your wings. Our hope, Lord Jesus, is built on nothing else, nothing less than Your precious blood and righteousness.

In closing, our Lord, we are living in dark times. We are living in times when our Senators, Governors, leaders, and our Presidents are attacked from left and right. I believe, according to Your word Heavenly Father, that government is biblical. We, of course, are flawed. I believe that this state's government can be a light in the dark times if they stop legalizing sin and start honoring the written, infallible word of God. I pray they seek You, Jesus, for guidance on issues dealing with this state, our counties, cities, villages, and the people of the great state of Michigan.

We ask all this in the matchless Name above all names, the King above all kings, the Judge above all judges, the Lord above all lords, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

The President, Lieutenant Governor Calley, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Senator Nofs' statement is as follows:

Today I have an unenviable task of saying goodbye to a member of the Nofs team who will be leaving the team and who has been with us for a long time. I rise today to ask for your help in thanking Greg Moore for more than a decade of service to the Legislature and the citizens of our great state.

I have been lucky enough to work with Greg for over 20 years, beginning when I was a newly-elected Calhoun County Board of Commissioners chairperson. We had a vacancy on the board and I had the opportunity to select Greg Moore to fill it. It was one of the best decisions of my elected official career. Greg succeeded me as the board chair, and after my first term in the House, he joined my staff in Lansing as Legislative Director. He has always been an intelligent and resourceful professional, traits that serve him well and have been vital to my success in the Legislature.

Greg is not one to brag about his accomplishments being a member of the team, so I'm going to do it for him today. During our time together, we have worked on four major pieces of legislation that I am particularly proud of, and I would not have been successful on those pieces of legislation without him. In the House, we tackled comprehensive re-writes of the Michigan Telecommunications Act and we also did the energy policy of 2008. On the Senate side, we completed a long overdue update to the Protection of Underground Facilities Act—better known as MISS DIG—which Elaine Tycocki had told us was a done deal, they'd been working on it for three years, and it was going to be smooth as heck. Well, three years later, we finally got that piece of legislation done. In case anyone has forgotten, the other big piece we have done—which we just did last year—was another piece of energy policy legislation.

So with those successes, and there are many, many more—we could be here all day—but I'm going to start talking about Greg Moore, the person, and not all of his work and his ethics and his professionalism that he displays each and every day and all of you have seen. I want to tell you a couple of stories about Greg and I and our careers that I think will be fun for all of us. Back in 2005, when we were doing the Michigan Telecommunications Act, Greg had been here for probably four or five months and just getting started. If you remember that bill—and a lot of you were there—it was a full-employment bill for all the lobbyists in town. They were all out in the hallway in front of the House Chamber and I had been out there towards the end. We were getting ready to vote and I was still trying to work on Members of the House of Representatives to get their support and with leadership, and I was busy. I had gone out to the hallway and I was just bombarded. Everybody and their brother had another amendment they wanted to do. I just shook my head and grabbed them and took them back to my desk on the House floor. Greg looked at me and said, "What's wrong?" I said, "Oh my God, I don't think we're ever going to get done with this thing." So Greg said, "Give me those things." He decided to go out and slay the dragon in the hallway. He had about eight or nine different amendments. I wasn't there so I don't know exactly what happened, but here's what I heard from a lot of the different individuals on what actually happened out in the hallway. It was packed out there. Greg decided to go up the stairs just a little bit, you know, where the stairs are just off the lobby. He stood there and said, "Hey, I want your attention for a minute. I've got a few amendments I want to talk to you about. I understand everybody's in agreement with them." He read off the first one, told them what it was, and said, "Anybody got a problem with that?" Oh my God, the hands went up and everybody went nuts and said, "No, I don't want that." My understanding was that Greg took the amendment, gave it to the author of the amendment who wanted it, and said to the other group, "You come over here in this corner, and you guys work it out and let us know when you get that done." He did that nine different times out there in those five minutes. He came back into the House and talked to me and said, "Boss, I've got it all taken care of. The amendments are done." I said, "What are you talking about? What did you do?" He said, "Well, I think they're out there fighting each other and I think they're going to be busy for two or three days, so I think we can get this job done."

There was another incident that Greg and I were involved in, as you know when you have someone that's so close to you, works so hard, and gets to know you really well. This is a few years back when the Tea Party movement was just getting started. Remember this one? I started going to the meetings, they were brand new, and after I went to a couple, they weren't real happy with me because I was—let's be honest—a little moderate. They weren't really excited about me and all my positions that I had. I said, you know I was thinking to myself after I got beat up a little bit, "I know Greg's a little more conservative than I am. Maybe I'll send him in there and see how he does." The next month, I had Greg go and after he got done that night, he gave me a call and said, "I got it all fixed for you, boss." I said, "Ok?" The next day, I got three or four calls from different members of the committee who said, "Don't ever send that guy back here again. We don't like him. We'd rather see you." He said, "See, I told you they'd like you after I got done."

There are other things. You know, I worked on these long pieces of legislation, so here's another story. When you were doing these big pieces of legislation, your time is valuable, as all of you know. I would wait until 11:30 p.m. or 12:00 midnight at night, and I would sit down at the computer at home in my computer room and go through my e-mails and try to address some constituent concerns—something we all do every day—trying to get it done and push some stuff that needs follow-up to staff—who are up here with me—they used to get it about 3:00 a.m. The first time I ever did that, it was about 3 a.m., I sent a couple to Greg Moore. It wasn't two minutes and I got a response from Greg Moore: "Hey boss, I got the answer for you. I'll have it here in two minutes and you'll be all set." I said, "What the heck are you doing? It's 3 a.m. I've got to pick you up in four hours. Get your butt to sleep because we have to go to work tomorrow." He said, "Ok. I just wanted to let you know I'm on the job 24/7."

There are other things about Greg I'd like to go into. There was one time at the Knight Cap, I'm going to tell this story. Sorry, it's my turn. Do you remember the guy who used to be the maître d' there? He was an older gentleman, man, he knew his stuff, and he knew his food. You'd sit down and he never had a pen or pencil. He took all your orders into his head. He'd come back and give you the appetizer and everything else. Things were going fine when we came out to dinner. Greg's a beef guy, so every time we go somewhere, he eats beef. He just gets beef. We got their beautiful filet, the best piece of meat you could get there. The guy brings our dinners out to us and starts putting them around, and he says, "Sir, you want to check that steak of yours and let me know how it is and make sure it's perfect." Greg says, "I will, as soon as you get me some ketchup." The guy looked at him—you remember this guy—he's like, "Ketchup?" "Yeah, I need some ketchup." He goes and gets ketchup and brings it back and he's standing next to Greg—we're in one of those circle booths and Greg was sitting on the end—and Greg takes that bottle of ketchup and just smothers that steak, drowns it. You can't see the piece of meat anymore. He cuts into it, takes a bite, and said, "Sir, it's perfect."

We could go on and on, we've had so much fun. It's been 20 years, and 20 years has really flown by. I'm happy for Greg and his opportunity to tackle new challenges, but also very, very sad to see my friend go. He really is like a younger brother to me; yes, he is younger than I am. I taught him a lot and he's taught me a lot, as brothers always do. He is irreplaceable in my mind as a member of our team whose leadership, professionalism, quick wit, and, yes, his sense of humor—I think you all have experienced that—will truly be missed. Before I give the tribute and close this out, I want to invite everybody over to please join us at 11:30 a.m., if we're done here by then, for a reception for Greg, honoring him in the Boji Tower on the first floor in the committee room.

With that, Greg, I want to say thank you so much for your years of service to the people of the 62nd District in the House of Representatives, the people of the 19th Senate District, and to the reputation that you and I built on how to get things done and do it proper and still have friends when it's over. You are just unbelievable and you are truly going to be missed. You are a true, dear friend and 20 years has just gone too fast. Good luck to you and I appreciate everything you've done for the people of the state of Michigan.

Senator Johnson entered the Senate Chamber.

The Assistant President pro tempore, Senator O'Brien, assumed the Chair.

Senator Kowall moved that the rules be suspended and that the following bills, now on Committee Reports, be placed on the General Orders calendar for consideration today:

Senate Bill No. 126

Senate Bill No. 158

The motion prevailed, a majority of the members serving voting therefor.
