House Bill 4973 (Substitute S-1 as reported by the Committee of the Whole)

Sponsor: Representative Brandt Iden

House Committee: Communications and Technology

Senate Committee: Elections and Government Reform

CONTENT

The bill would amend the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) to allow a public body to exempt the following from disclosure:

- Records of measures designed to protect the confidentiality, integrity, or availability of certain information systems, as well as cybersecurity plans, assessments, or vulnerabilities.
- Information that would reveal the identity of a person who could, as a result of disclosure of the information, become a victim of a cybersecurity incident, or that would reveal the person's cybersecurity plans, or cybersecurity-related practices.
- Research data on road and attendant infrastructure collected, measured, recorded, processed, or disseminated by a public agency or private entity, or information about software or hardware created or used by the private entity for such purposes.

Under the Act, upon providing a public body's FOIA coordinator with a written request that describes a public record sufficiently to enable the public body to find the public record, a person has a right to inspect, copy, or receive copies of the requested public record of the public body.

A public body may exempt from disclosure records or information of measures designed to protect the security or safety of persons or property. The bill also would allow the exemption of records or information of measures designed to protect the confidentiality, integrity, or availability of information systems, whether public or private, and cybersecurity plans, assessments, or vulnerabilities, unless disclosure would not impair a public body's ability to protect security or safety or unless the public interest in disclosure outweighed the public interest in nondisclosure.

In addition, the bill would include hard drives and solid state storage components in the definition of "public record".
