Senator Morris W. Hood III of the 3rd District offered the following invocation:

Lord, thank You for all that You have given us, all that You are giving us, and all that You will give us. Lord, let us pray for this illustrious body and the things that we do today to make Michigan a better place to live, to raise a family, and for the pursuit of the happiness of life.

Lord, bless all those who don't have enough to eat, who don't have shelter, and, even though it's a warmer day, who do not have heat. Bless those who are terminally ill, who may not have a ray of hope in their life. Lord, let them look to You for that sense of knowing that everything is going to be alright. Lord, most of all, we just want to thank You for giving us the things that we need. Lord, we thank You for this day, we thank You for yesterday, and we thank You for tomorrow.

Bless our first responders who run into places that everyone runs away from—our police, our fire, and our military.

Lord, we ask all these things in the name of Your Son, Jesus Christ, and we all say: Amen.

The Assistant President pro tempore, Senator O'Brien, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Whereas, William Webb Ferguson was an outspoken advocate of the rights of African Americans. Whereas, After leaving the legislature, Mr. Ferguson obtained his law degree from the Detroit College of Law and remained active in Detroit and Wayne County political circles; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the members of this legislative body honors the memory of William Webb Ferguson by displaying his portrait outside the former Supreme Court where he won his landmark civil rights case; and be it further

Senator Gregory asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Gregory’s statement is as follows:

I rise today to speak to my resolution honoring the memory of William Webb Ferguson, the first African American to be elected to the Michigan Legislature. This is appropriate as this is the last day of Black History Month.

Mr. Ferguson, from Detroit, was the first African American to enroll in the Detroit Public Schools where he graduated with honors in 1876. Mr. Ferguson held several prominent positions in Detroit and served as a leader in the African American community. The Ferguson family founded the first Detroit newspaper, and he continued his family tradition by learning the printing trade and opening Ferguson Printing Company.

William Webb Ferguson was an outspoken advocate for the rights of African Americans. After being denied service at a restaurant for refusing to sit in the colored section, he filed a discrimination lawsuit that was eventually heard before the Michigan Supreme Court. In 1890, the court sided with Ferguson and ruled racial segregation in public spaces violated Michigan law. In 1892, he was elected as a Republican into the Michigan House of Representatives, where he served from 1893 to 1896. As a State Representative, Mr. Ferguson was best known for supporting retirement benefits for disabled firemen and pensions for the families of the deceased firemen. After leaving the Legislature, Mr. Ferguson obtained his law degree from the Detroit College of Law, and remained active in Detroit and Wayne County political circles.

It is a great privilege to announce that the members of this legislative body honor the memory of William Webb Ferguson by displaying his portrait outside the former Supreme Court where he won his landmark civil rights case. William Webb Ferguson’s legacy inspires others and reminds us of the important achievements that he contributed to Michigan and the African American community.

I would also like to give a special thanks to the Secretary of the Senate who stepped up and did an admirable job in making all of this happen. I don’t think it would have happened without him. I appreciate that and I wanted to publicly say thank you for all the work that you have done.

Senators Hood, Gregory, Conyers, Bieda and Hopgood offered the following resolution:

Senate Resolution No. 135.

A resolution to urge the United States Congress to pass legislation that regulates political advertisements on the internet, including social and digital media, like traditional political advertisements in order to encourage transparency.

Whereas, Social and digital media on the internet play a significant role in how people communicate, receive information, and make decisions. There are approximately 2 billion active monthly users on Facebook and 330 million on Twitter. With such a tremendous reach, these internet media platforms have become a marketplace where advertisements are purchased, produced, and distributed, much like on television and other forms of media; and

Whereas, Existing regulations require transparency for political advertising in traditional media sources. Federal regulations require that political candidates and committees include a disclaimer on “public communications” and “websites available to the public” if the communication expressly advocates for the election or defeat of a clearly identified candidate or solicits funds in connection with the election. The disclaimer identifies the individual(s) or organization(s) that paid for the advertisement. Under current law, “public communication” is defined as a “broadcast, cable or satellite transmission...” and any “other general public political advertisement.” “General public political advertisements” do not include internet advertisements unless they are specifically placed for a fee on another person’s website; and

Whereas, Campaign finance regulatory loopholes exist in the realm of internet media, resulting in a lack of transparency for political advertising. Social and digital media pages promote and advertise political campaigns but are outside of the current federal regulatory scope. The owners of these pages, which can be managed by people outside of political campaigns, are not required to disclose their identity. Political videos, pictures, and other messages are circulated throughout social media networks, through organic and paid methods, creating an unregulated media source where unknown advertising outlets are targeting audiences without any transparency measures; and

Whereas, It is well documented that Russian and potentially other foreign actors tried to influence the 2016 election through social and digital media. For instance, Facebook has revealed that one Russian entity spent over $100,000 to promote and circulate unidentified political ads on the social media network. If broadcast on a traditional media source, where disclosure is required, that would have been a violation; and

Whereas, With the continued emergence of social and digital media, including its use as a platform for political advertising, our campaign finance regulations must be strengthened. Recent court decisions have led to dramatically increasing campaign finance expenditures. Moreover, spending is shifting from traditional sources to new digital and social media on the internet. Television and radio have seen a political spending decline of 20 percent and 23 percent, respectively, since 2012. Digital advertising, totaling over $1.4 billion, saw an uptick of 15 percent during the 2016 election cycle. This campaign finance trend will only continue and demands federal attention; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That we urge the United States Congress to pass legislation that regulates political advertisements on the internet, including social and digital media, like traditional political advertisements in order to encourage transparency; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the members of the Michigan congressional delegation.

Pending the order that, under rule 3.204, the resolution be referred to the Committee on Government Operations, Senator Kowall moved that the rule be suspended.

The motion prevailed, a majority of the members serving voting therefor.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution,

The motion prevailed.

Senators Booher, Hertel, Jones and Knezek were named co-sponsors of the resolution.

Senator Rocca offered the following resolution:

Senate Resolution No. 136.

A resolution commemorating March 2018 as Problem Gambling Awareness Month.

Whereas, Legalized gambling is available in a variety of forms across Michigan; and

Whereas, For some individuals, gambling becomes an issue with significant societal and economic costs for them, their families, and their communities; and

Whereas, Problem gambling is a public health issue affecting individuals of all ages and backgrounds; and

Whereas, The National Council on Problem Gambling coordinates the fourteenth annual National Problem Gambling Awareness Month during March, and seeks to increase public awareness of problem gambling as well as the availability of prevention, treatment, and recovery services; and

Whereas, Problem gambling is treatable and such treatment is effective in minimizing harm to both individuals and society; and

Whereas, It is important to raise public awareness of the warning signs of problem gambling and the availability and effectiveness of treatment; and

Whereas, Educating citizens about problem gambling is important to not only recognize, but to prevent as well; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the members of this legislative body commemorate March 2018 as Problem Gambling Awareness Month; and be it further

Resolved, That we urge the state of Michigan to recognize the seriousness of problem gambling and encourage all of its citizens to play responsibly.

Pending the order that, under rule 3.204, the resolution be referred to the Committee on Government Operations, Senator Kowall moved that the rule be suspended.

The motion prevailed, a majority of the members serving voting therefor.
