Rep. Kelly Breen, from the 21st District, offered the following invocation:

“I am imperfect in many things, nevertheless I want my brethren and kinsfolk to know my nature so that they may be able to perceive my soul’s desire.” - St. Patrick

If we can look past individual imperfections and recognize the good in all of us, and the good we wish to deliver to the people we serve, if we can separate the person from the politics - we can achieve wonders.

Let us invite God, in all His forms and names, into our hearts and minds. In this Chamber and outside of it - it matters not if you pray to the Holy Spirit, Jehovah, Buddha, Yahweh, The Force, Great Mother, the Great Spirit, Christ, Allah, or God by any other name - as long as you welcome that higher power and embrace it to do good.

For we all want the same things for ourselves, our families, and those we serve - to want to be happy, to be healthy, to be safe. Our paths diverge only on the means to achieving happiness, good health, and safety, but they meet at the end.

With His guidance we can walk these clear and true paths of service. And that along these paths, we can find the compassion, wisdom, and patience to truly help one another and humankind.

It is with that understanding, that love, wisdom, compassion and patience we can take action to keep our children, our loved ones, our families, our health care workers, first responders, and men and women in uniform safe, to help them be healthy and bring them happiness.

We plead with the Lord to find His way into the souls, hearts and minds of the people far away in Ukraine, Israel, Gaza – as well as to parents who grieve the loss of their children to violence here in Michigan and the United States- to give them the strength to endure and comfort when all seems lost.

As we walk these paths to happiness, good health and safety, not just as legislators, but as parents, as spouses, as sons and daughters, as neighbors, as humans, - I ask that God give us the grace and strength to do all the good we can, as often as we can, wherever we can, for as many as we can, for as long as we can.

‘And let us not grow weary of doing good, for in due season we will reap, if we do not give up.’”

Whereas, Counties play a key role in public health by promoting equitable and accessible health for all residents; and

Whereas, Counties provide such services as parks and recreation programs, senior citizen services, medical care facilities, drainage systems and infrastructure construction and maintenance; and

Whereas, The theme for this year's County Government Month is "Forward Together" and focuses on the critical role counties play in public life; and

House Resolution No. 219.

A resolution to declare April 11-17, 2024, as Black Maternal Health Week in the state of Michigan.

Whereas, According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in 2023, Black mothers in the United States die from pregnancy-related causes at three times the rate of white mothers; and

Whereas, The CDC data from 2021 for pregnancy-related deaths shows that maternal mortality rates are increasing rapidly, 26.6 deaths per 100,000 live births for white women, 69.9 deaths per 100,000 live births for Black women, and 32.1 deaths per 100,000 live births for women of all races in the United States; and

Whereas, The United States has some of the worst rates of maternal and infant health outcomes among high-income nations, despite spending an estimated $111 billion per year on maternal, prenatal, and newborn care; and

Whereas, Black women have the highest percentage (14.8%) of US live births that are pre-term; and

Whereas, Disparities in maternal and infant mortality are rooted in structural racism; and the Institute of Medicine reported substantial disparities in the quality of care for minority communities even when accounting for healthcare insurance coverage and income; and

Whereas, Black women are more likely to quit, be fired, or return to work before they are healthy after giving birth due to inadequate family and medical leave policies; and

Whereas, Black maternal death is one of the widest but not the only racial disparities in women's health; and

Whereas, Black women are 22 percent more likely to die from heart disease than white women, 71 percent more likely to die from cervical cancer, and three to four times more likely to die from pregnancy-related or childbirth-related causes; and

Whereas, According to the National Institutes of Health, when compared with white women with the conditions of preeclampsia, eclampsia, abruptio placentae, placenta previa, and postpartum hemorrhage, which are common causes of maternal death and injury, Black women are three to four times more likely to die than white women who had the same condition; and

Whereas, Black women are more likely to experience reproductive health disorders such as fibroids, and are three times more likely to have endometriosis; and

Whereas, According to the Michigan Maternal Mortality Surveillance Project, between 2015 to 2019, Black women in Michigan experienced a pregnancy-related mortality rate of 29.8 deaths per 100,000 live births compared to 10.7 deaths per 100,000 live births for white women in Michigan; and

Whereas, According to the Commonwealth Fund, the United States has the highest maternal death rate in high-income countries in which two-thirds of all recorded deaths are deemed to be preventable and our state currently ranks 25th in the nation for maternal deaths; and

Whereas, These alarming statistics for Black maternal health cut across socio-economic status, maternal age, and education levels; and

Whereas, We recognize the necessity for increased attention to the state of Black maternal healthcare as well as the need to study and understand the root causes of the discrepancies in maternal health outcomes; and

Whereas, We support community-driven programs, care solutions, the improvement of prenatal care and overall maternal healthcare, the improvement of breastfeeding rates and nutrition, and the amplification of the voices of Black mothers, women, families, and stakeholders; including Black women from across the diaspora and Afro-Latinx groups; and

Whereas, We also recognize the necessity to end maternal mortality statewide, nationally, and globally in order to strengthen the need for maternal health and maternal rights; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That he members of this legislative body declare April 11-17, 2024, as Black Maternal Health Week in the state of Michigan.

Whereas, Michigan has formally participated in financial literacy programming for years through the collaboration and coordinated effort of hundreds of organizations including financial institutions, non-profit groups, government entities, schools, and libraries. The initiative showcases these organizations' educational resources, strengthens public-private partnerships, engages the media, and connects people with resources to help them better manage their money; and

Whereas, A greater understanding of, and familiarity with, financial markets and institutions will lead to increased economic activity and growth; and

Whereas, According to data compiled by TransUnion, the average credit card debt for Americans was an estimated $5,733 through the first quarter of 2023. Additionally, in a 2022 report by the Federal Reserve, 18% of households were not expecting to pay all of their monthly bills in full for October of that year, with 33% of low-income adults not expecting to be able to pay their bills in full; and

Whereas, Personal financial education and money management skills are crucial to ensure that all Michiganders, especially our young people, are prepared to manage credit and debt and become responsible workers, heads of households, homeowners, investors, entrepreneurs, business leaders, and productive citizens; and
