SUMMARY:

House Bill 6010 would amend the Public Health Code to include public health graduate degree programs in the Essential Health Provider Repayment Program.

The code requires the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) to administer the program to repay certain designated professionals for debt or expenses as a result of a loan taken to attend certain medical programs if they enter into a written contract to provide full-time practice of health care services in a health resource shortage area, to which they are assigned by the department for a period specified in the contract of at least two years.

The bill would add public health graduate degree programs to those that are eligible for the program under the act.

Public health graduate degree program would mean an accredited program for the training of individuals to become medical directors of local health departments through the completion of one of the following degrees:

- Master of public health.
- Master of science in public health.

The bill would also add individuals who are qualified in public health to those who can be recruited by DHHS for the program.

MCL 333.2701 et seq.

FISCAL IMPACT:

House Bill 6010 would increase state expenditures to the Department of Health and Human Services by an indeterminate amount and have no fiscal impact on local units of government. The fiscal impact of the bill would be dependent on the number of individuals seeking a graduate degree in public health who apply for the loan repayment program provided by the state in exchange for a two-year service obligation. Under the provisions of the bill, the amount of debt repayment the department can provide to an eligible applicant is up to $40,000 per year, with a maximum amount of $300,000 allowed over the course of 10 years.
